"ALL FOR OUR COUNTRY."

Though but eighteen months have elapsed since the inauguration of William H. Taft as president of this nation; by and through his characteristic judicial calmness, his firmness of purpose, his unyielding determination and wisdom, he has carried forward, developed and had crystallized into law the policies of William McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt, as well as those outlined in the national platform of 1908.

He has succeeded in securing into legal enactment more important, useful and beneficial legislation than any other president; he has accomplished a revision of the tariff, an exceedingly difficult and complex piece of business, the benign influence of which is already felt throughout the whole country; by it great reductions have been made in the rates of duty on lumber, paper, wood pulp, and other products of the forests, in coal, leather, boots and shoes, harness and other manufactures of leather goods, with hides on the free list and substantial reductions of rates on manufactures of steel and on iron and other metal ores, with a 25 per cent reduction on beef and other food animals, the democratic spell-binders tell us that the increased cost of living is attributable to this robber tariff.

By this expected and much needed law, business continues with renewed impetus, wages are advancing and steadily maintained, labor is in demand, there is greater activity in railroad operations with increasing equipment carrying our products; with a sound and abundant increasing currency—greater per capita than ever—new railroads and manufactures are projected, new mines are being opened, vast enterprises are being inaugurated, bringing good prices and prosperity. So much for the much abused Taft tariff, "the best tariff bill ever passed," which the unfettered stump howlers assert is responsible for the increased cost of living.

They indulge in the boldest of assertions, absolutely destitute of fact or any foundation whatever. They never mention or name any article on your breakfast table, the cost of which has been increased by the tariff. True the recent tariff law imposed an increase on pickled nuts, imported champagne and other luxuries which the working men do not consider essential to their well being. The increased cost of living is attributable to a combination of causes, exclusive of the tariff which if it contributes thereto at all, is not a proximate, but entirely remote cause or very incidental, in that it is instrumental in creating a demand; as to food products the tariff law has no relation, it is entirely inoperative. The price of food is regulated and absolutely controlled by the natural law of supply and demand.

The farmer is not assisted by the tariff in the volume of his products or their market value. The volume of farm products is not controlled by the tariff, it is determined by various causes, chiefly that of the varying conditions of the weather and seasons and the ravages of diseases, insects, etc.; in the destruction of animal and vegetable life. The farmer nor the tariff cannot regulate that. It is regulated by Providence.

Taft's administration is credited with numerous remedial and beneficent legislation, the postal savings banks, the creation of the bureau of mines, the control of railroads to regulate freight rates and prevent extortionate charges and discrimination, the punishment of the white slave traffic, the creation of a permanent tariff commission, the commerce court, the conservation of our natural resources, the investigation of railway accidents and monthly report of the same; requiring the use of safety appliances on interstate railroads to prevent accidents and the protection of employees and travelers, the employers' liability act, amendments to the fellow servant law in government and other work, the act in relief of homesteaders, extending time to them for payment of homestead lands; the admission of New Mexico and Arizona as states, the publicity of campaign contributions, the special appropriation act for the prosecution of trusts and unlawful combinations in restraint of trade; the twenty million bond act to be used in completing irrigation projects now under way, the legislative, executive and judicial bill under which a radical reorganization of the foreign diplomatic and consular service has been made for the betterment of the service, and the more efficient conduct of the trade and treaty relations of the United States and the furtherance of American interest that marks a new epoch in the history of American diplomacy which spells much for the expansion of our foreign commerce which with increased production will be of vital importance to our industrial workers. The republican party state convention of candidates for United States senator, member of congress, state officers, state senators and members of assembly, candidates, nominees of the party, none of them strangers to the people of this commonwealth; they are men of sterling worth, the salt of the earth, possessing all of the qualifications of honesty, integrity and ability to creditably discharge the duties of the respective offices for which they have been nominated and to which they aspire, each and all are actual residents and citizens, their interest is identical with that of this people; they will soon convene at Carson City to formulate and adopt a platform or declaration of principles and policies which they will proclaim. They should be true to the motto of our state: "All for our country;" if so it will contain an unmistakable, positive, a pronounced and hearty indorsement of the administration of President William H. Taft. It will likewise commend the loyal support given that administration in all of its glorious achievements and rich accomplishments by Senator George S. Nixon. It should take a crack at the democratic party for its creation of useless and unnecessary offices, incurring an enormous expense to the tax payers; for instance: the mineral land commissioner, railroad commissioners, state board of assessors, state police, state banking board, fish commissioner, bullion tax inspector, publicity commissioners, state auditor, sheep commissioners, state engineer, with an army of secretaries, deputy state officers, stenographers, clerks and typist, etc., galore; add to this the experimental dry farm. All of this should receive consideration, to the end that those unnecessary accoutrements may be abolished and avoid expense to the taxpayers.

FRANK GOLDEN MUST FACE TRIAL IN DISTRICT COURT

Judge Averill Denies Motion to Dismiss Charges of Embezzlement---Case to Be Called October 5th.

Judge Mark R. Averill, in the fifth judicial district court, this morning handed down a ruling on the motion to dismiss the charges of embezzlement against Frank Golden and discharge the defendant from custody, denying the request. Golden, the president of the Nye and Ormsby County bank, was indicted by the present grand jury and charged with embezzling the funds of the bank. At first Golden demanded an immediate trial, but after thinking the matter over he decided to take advantage of every legal technicality afforded, and promptly moved that the case be dismissed.

The grounds for this motion were that the act of the legislature of 1907 and the act of 1909 were in conflict as the former act had not been repealed when the latter went into effect.

In the ruling Judge Averill found that the act was formulated with the intent of affording protection to the people against unscrupulous bankers. The court further held that the legislature of 1909 did not intend to appeal the act of 1907, but purposely left it to accomplish what good it could as violations of it might be brought to light.

"The pardon of the early offenders with the idea of preparing a greater and strongly penalty for the later ones would prove inconsistent with the proceedings of the body of men chosen by the people to guard their interests seriously and earnestly," concluded the court as the motion to dismiss and discharge was denied.

It is now probable, and possible, that counsel for Golden will appeal to the supreme court at Carson for a writ of prohibition, asking that the local court be prohibited from trying the case on October 5, the date for which it is set. The request for the writ of prohibition will be based on the same grounds as the motion to dismiss, as filed in the local court; counsel alleging that the former act should have been repealed when the latter was enacted.

As has been set forth in different law reports, the intention of the legislature is the law in itself, and trivial technicalities are not considered in carrying out the original intent. However, whatever construction may be placed against the act, there is but little doubt that the case will come to trial on the date set.

All Voters Must Register for Forthcoming General Election

The great register for the general elections to be held on November 8 will close on October 21 and those who have not registered at that time will be deprived of the privilege of voting at the fall election. Many persons have inferred that the fact of their having registered for the recent primary election or having been on the great register before the last general election would entitle them to vote this fall, but such is not the case. Every voter, no matter where he lives or what registry book or books he has signed in the past, must have his name entered on the great register before October 21, if he would vote at the general election this fall.
